

IN GREECE IN JESUS' DAY A CHURCH REFERRED TO A DEMOCRACY OF FREE, VOTING CITIZENS

THE DRIVING GOAL OF HISTORY: LOVE, UNITY AND DEMOCRACY ON EARTH AS IT IS IN HEAVEN!

A holographic image formed around Redfield and he witnessed history. At first humans lived in individual tribes with power gained by the strongest. Over millenia mankind coalesced and built complex nations. The drive to coalesce into ever-large civilizations came from a vague intuition, understood fully in the Afterlife, that human destiny was to evolve toward unification. Many were born hoping to remember their Birth Visions, that humans could transcend the habit of fighting. They intended to implement a system that protected the rights of the weak and allowed for a free market and the free exchange of ideas. Yet, once here, this intuition was distorted into an unconscious drive to conquer and dominate. But through the bloody process, key truths made their way from the Afterlife into the physical dimension. A new ethic of interaction began in Greece, a system that is followed in the Afterlife, it became known as democracy!

Nowhere was this intuition of democracy stronger than in the United States. Many people came with Birth Visions intending to evolve capitalism, but once here their intuitions became distorted into a drive to build material security. Then came the sixties generation, questioning society's material reality, that human purpose was to create a more materially secure world. They also found disturbing disparities in the system, women and minorities were not free. The church was more concerned with outward appearances, words were more important than works. Many turned to the Eastern religions, looking for spiritual reality, trying to connect with God on the inside in an enlightenment experience. New findings from the human sciences revealed that humans were using only a portion of their potential. From these new findings and spiritual experience a reformation began, the Human Potential Movement. Our behavior was no longer determined by what others thought but by our own inner ethics. To those who had love toward others, ethical behavior was not a problem. Many used the new findings to imply that criminals were not responsible for their works, but were victims of oppressive social conditions.

A polarization was forming as conservatives reacted in Fear against a viewpoint they saw as permissive and liberal, leading to chaos and the disintegration of their way of life. The reformers, driven by Fear, sensed their hard-earned victories for individual rights were in danger of being swept away by moneyed, corporate interest, who were exploiting weaker members of society and trying to control the wealth, ultimately leading to civil disorder then police control. The conservatives considered the liberal reformers a part of a conspiracy of big government, using Fear of increasing crime and civil unrest as an excuse to give control to a centralized bureaucracy. The reformers also observed the increasing crime and degenerating family structure, only the cause was not too much government intervention, but too little, too late. Capitalism had failed a whole class of people, education and jobs were not there for the poor. Many, interpreting prophecies literally, Feared the way we were going was fulfilling our destiny—the apocalypse!

Redfield saw beyond the Fear to the Birth Visions of everyone involved in the polarization. Each had been born intending to help bring about a transition from a materialistic worldview to a spiritual one, remembering the good way, that works of love invoke love! The growing belligerence was an aberration, coming not from intention, but from Fear. Our original Vision was that our destined spiritual purpose could descend into the world, initiating a utopia of unity and mutual love in a good way and symbolically fulfill end-time prophecies. Yet, clearly without the mediating plan of the World Vision there was no sign of hope, the polarization of Fear would accelerate with each side thinking the other in league with the devil!

THE TENTH INSIGHT by James Redfield takes place in a valley in the Appalachian mountains. Redfield was there searching for his missing friend Charlene when he met David Lone Eagle, a Native American, who told him about the Tenth Insight. David revealed that it has something to do with remembering the World Vision—humans are to fulfill a historical purpose of uniting the dimensions of Heaven and Earth in mutual love! To fully figure out the World Vision, we must first remember our Birth Vision, the good way we intended to go in life. To find the good way, purify your heart through fasting and penance of forgiveness, have mercy and love for your neighbor.*

Redfield and his friend Wil traveled through a dimensional opening in the valley into the Afterlife and observed the Birth Vision and Life Review of John Donald Williams. Williams, one of a group of seven, had come back from the Afterlife intending to fulfill this historical purpose, and to help resolve the Fear and stop an experiment being conducted in the valley; but he died not remembering his good intentions. Someone was experimenting, trying to tie into Earth's electromagnetic field through an opening in the valley, which could disrupt nine dimensions and trigger massive destruction on Earth. Later, while searching for Charlene, Redfield met Curtis Webber, a scientist. They survived a blast from the experiment that opened up a massive fissure on a hilltop. Curtis had been searching for the experiment and intended to stop it using explosives. Redfield pleaded with him to wait until he could find Wil again in the Afterlife and learn more about stopping it with the World Vision (ch. 1–5/cards 53–56). The following is an abridgment of chapter 6—History of Awakening!

THE GOOD WAY TO AWAKEN THE WORLD!

Curtis directed Redfield to walk south to a rock overhang, where he heard there was a dimensional opening. As Redfield walked, looking for the overhang, he became confused and sat down to try to raise his energy. Then he saw an eagle fly from its nest toward the east. He followed it and came to the majestic overhang. The slope was covered with huge terraces of thick limestone. It had a wide shelf that jutted out, providing a spectacular view. As he centered himself, an image of Wil came to his mind and once more he began to move into the Afterlife dimension. When he opened his eyes, he was in an area of rich blue light. Wil was there and happy and relieved to see him, “You are going to love it here!” he said.

Redfield, anxious, began, “It's imperative that we find this experiment and stop it!” Then he described meeting Curtis and how they survived the blast of the experiment and how Williams communicated with them from the Afterlife by influencing their thoughts. “What did Williams communicate?” Wil asked. “He confirmed what David said and what we saw in Maya's Birth Vision. Humans can remember beyond our individual birth intentions to a broader knowledge of human purpose. Remembering this knowledge brings in an expanded energy—an awakening—that can end the Fear and stop the experiment. He called it a World Vision.” Wil replied, “Then the only good way we can help is to explore the Afterlife to find out more about remembering this larger Vision. There must be an exact method for remembering it.”

HISTORY OF THE GNOSTICS: WORKS MORE IMPORTANT THAN WORDS!

Suddenly dozens of amber-colored beings came into focus, exuding a feeling of sentiment and familiarity. Redfield, filled with waves of acknowledgment of how much heaven loves him, realized it was his soul group. He began getting memories of himself as a Benedictine monk in 13th-century France. Two “Spirituals,” ascetics from a secret Franciscan order, asked him to help preserve old documents containing the Insights, a secret knowledge that was in danger of being lost. The Spirituals had been condemned as Gnostics and excommunicated for believing that a higher awareness could be achieved by practicing a contemplative life in nature.

GNOSIS: A METHOD OF DIAGNOSIS OR A GOOD WAY TO KNOW GOD'S WILL USING INTUITIVE KNOWLEDGE AND INTERIOR VISIONING, USED BY CHRISTIANS, GREEKS, ORIENTALS, AND THE AUTHOR OF THESE CARDS. MY SECRET KNOWLEDGE: BE AWARE OF AND FOLLOW YOUR FIRST THOUGHT OR INSPIRATION, THIS IS YOUR INTUITIONS AT WORK, EVERYTHING AFTER THAT IS NOISE, LEADING TO DOUBTS AND EXCUSES!

Redfield secretly copied the Insights and tried to persuade the Spirituals to make them public. They adamantly refused, saying the Insights would not be accepted until the church reconciled the Gnostic dilemma. The Gnostics were early Christians who believed that followers of the one God should not merely revere Christ with their words but strive to emulate him in works, illuminated in the Spirit of Pentecost. They sought to describe this emulation as a method of practice, a good way to facilitate the act of “letting go to God's will.” They wanted to give more than mere lip serve to the idea. By practicing this method, they believed God's overall plan could be known. But the churchmen did not want to see their works nor hear their words.

Redfield secretly shared a copy of the Insights with a friend. Reaction came swiftly, he was asked to cease any discussion on it and to report to his superiors. Panicked, he dispensed the manuscripts throughout his order, hoping to garner support. He was betrayed, beaten, and left languishing at the stock for days before being decapitated. Turning to Wil, he asked, “Why would the church create such a dilemma?” Wil explained, “They were afraid to say that Christ modeled a method for a transformative spiritual connection with the divine that everyone can aspire to. They Feared it would empower the individual, then they would lose control over them. On the one hand they urged the believer to seek the mystical kingdom of God within, to intuit God's will, and to be filled with the Holy Spirit; but on the other they condemned any open discussion of how to go about achieving it by using an exact method. You were killed because you tried to force an understanding—an awakening—into culture before its time!”

AWAKEN TO YOUR BIRTH VISION NOW!

Redfield moved forward to his life in the 19th century and the war in the valley. Maya was trying to negotiate a peace settlement between the Native Americans and the settlers. Redfield, a mountain man, was friends with both sides. Maya had won the hearts of some, but he was reluctant to take a stand. The unconscious memory of his wounds in the 13th century were too close to the surface. Again he moved forward in time and watched his Birth Vision to his present family. Through their upbringing he intended to work through his Fear and clear his tendency of reluctance. Regretfully, he realized this life did not go ideally as he intended, the good way that would have been the most satisfying. Wil said, “No one can exactly follow their Birth Vision. What's important is that you remembered the good way you wanted to go; thereby having the illuminating experience of a Life Review now! This has to be a key part of the Tenth Insight! We no longer have to die to engage in our Life Review, but can awaken now! Simply diagnose yourself, then strive to have a pure heart! Everyone has a Birth Vision, but it becomes unconscious after birth, understood through prayer and vague intuitions.” Redfield intuited, “Then human history has been a struggle toward one goal: trying to remember what we understood in the Afterlife and make this knowledge conscious on Earth!”
